DETAILED ACTION

Allowable Subject Matter

1. Claims 1-26 and 31-34 are allowed.

2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance. The prior art of record and to the examiner's knowledge does not teach or render obvious, at least to the skilled artisan, the instant invention regarding:

a method of manufacturing a semiconductor device including formation of a film upon a flexible substrate, wherein the flexible substrate is thermally shrunk prior to formation of the film, and the film is formed by sputtering, as recited in claims 1 and 9;

a method of manufacturing a semiconductor device including formation of a film upon a flexible substrate, wherein the flexible substrate is thermally shrunk prior to formation of the film, and the film is formed by plasma CVD, as recited in claims 2 and 10;

a method of manufacturing a semiconductor device including formation of a pattern upon a flexible substrate, wherein the flexible substrate is thermally shrunk prior to formation of the pattern, and the pattern is formed by screen printing, as recited in claims 7 and 11;

a method of manufacturing a semiconductor device including formation of a pattern upon a flexible substrate, wherein the flexible substrate is thermally shrunk prior to formation of the pattern, and the pattern is formed by laser processing, as recited in claims 8 and 12.

3. The following references are cited as being particularly related to the applicant's invention: Hino et al. (5,848,465) teach laminating a flexible substrate (polyimide) to an existing metal foil, and then curing the flexible substrate by heating. The heating treatment tends to shrink the flexible substrate (column 4, lines 17 et seq.). Kitamura (5,650,809) teaches a control electrode forming process such as sputtering or plating, and that the substrate (polyimide) that shrinks at a higher rate than the copper that is sputtered or plated (column 4, lines 56-67).

4. Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
